Laughing Disease Outbreaks Continue

The Challenge Department of Emergency Action (CDEA) announced that laughing disease case numbers have gone down by 8.4% due to recent quarantine efforts, but cases continue to occur. The government approved a 120 Million dollar grant for research and action towards prevention and a cure.

The disease was confirmed to be viral, with several different strains. Currently, 3 Quarantine Centers were established on Saturday. An emergency test was approved, and anyone who tests positive for what is now known as Acute High-Virulence Pseudobulcular Disease (AH-VPD) must report the case and be transported to a quarantine center.

Emergency research has proved a mortality rate of 82% to be standard for the most common strain, called

AH-VPD(a), while the more virulent AH-VPD(d) strain has an astounding mortality rate of 98%. The least virulent strain is AH-VPD(c) with a mortality rate of 40%.

Scientists confirmed that survivors of one strain have resistance to most other strains, and in about 20% of cases, they have resistance to every strain.

The disease kills through rapid organ failure so please remember to stay hydrated and stay 3 mini penguins apart to prevent transmission via eyeball juice. Treatments currently include supportive care, legume soup, plenty of fluids and the Amino Burger™.

Could the Laughing Disease Have Been Created by the Hot Chocolate Death Squad?

In recently unclassified documents, threats from all the way back in 2023 state: “Oh you won’t believe what’s coming. We won’t be the ones laughing though... That would be you”

Eggman Unleashed on Brooklyn

Dr. Eggman has been unleashed on Brooklyn. He also has recently become forklift certified, meaning he will likely destroy the entire city. There is no hope for Brooklyn anymore, if you are in the area evacuate IMMEDIATELY, leave all your belongings, do not take anything. There is no use in reporting any forklift noises or Eggman sightings to authorities, as there is no longer a way to stop him.

7-Souled Computer Soon to Destroy Humanity

A computer with the combined souls of Owen King, Jaxton Ashton, Bennett Bushhorn, Jacob Zielinski, James Swedenburg, Parker Douglas, and an anonymous murderer. This computer, affectionately named 'Kyle', has murderous intent, and may very well go on a rampage, destroying humanity as we know it. Unless a soulless individual (Conner Day) can just simply absorb the computer into their soul slot, in which case we're going to need to shortly after sacrifice them.

With a wild mix of good and evil, it's going to be extremely hard to tell whether the combined souls will go to heaven, AVID, or some Aztec god's stomach.

Until then, make sure to lock and barricade your doors at night so the seven-souled circuit box doesn't come in. "It knows when you are sleeping, It knows when you're awake. It knows if you've been bad or good, and it'll kill you anyway" -A Witness of the Computer. O-

Stocks going down, checks and Czechs going up?

Apparently, even though we are just a fraction of a cinnamon-eater away from country-wide bankruptcy, a mysterious figure has been donating Czechs to us. So, in honor of this mysterious figure's gifts, we put the first one as our new mascot and enslaved all the other Czechs to do whatever they can to get us more checks and Czechs. Hopefully these Czech's checks will also help keep us in check from over-checking checks for Czech forgery because we can just hire more Czechs with our many checks.

Laughing Disease Response Prevents Study of "Austinism" Cure

HAHAHAHAHA—Biosciences, the main company in charge of creating a treatment for Austinism, has had to postpone this project to focus all their efforts on a cure for the laughing disease. For our readers with Austinism, we are sorry if this breakthrough has given you false hope, we are looking forward to the day that a cure becomes available.
